

ECCHS Student of the Month

*D’Nadia Hill is being recognized as the Academic Student of the month by the Language Arts Department, because of her hard work this year on The Blue Print, the student newspaper. Jeannie Jourolmon, journalism advisor, nominated her for this well deserved honor. D’Nadia is the editor of The Blue Print and she worked hard to ensure this year’s school newspaper is memorable. She organized and edited the weekly newspaper articles and Student Spotlight posts. D’Nadia Hill is the daughter of Nikki Rucker.

*Naomi Bernal is being recognized as the Academic Student of the month by the Fine Arts department. Naomi’s teacher Ms. Ainsley McNeese says “Naomi shows up to the band everyday with such a positive attitude. Her personality and good spirit never fails to brighten my day. She is dedicated and gives her best in all aspects of band, and our band program is so lucky to have her.” Naomi is the daughter of Juana Bustamante and Antonio Bernal.

*Mya Childs is being recognized as the Academic Student of the month by the Math department. Mya’s teacher, Mr. Luke Hall says “Mya is an excellent student and a joy to have in class. She is always on tasks and completes her work in a timely fashion. Mya has the highest average in my 1st Block Algebra class.” Mya is the daughter of Sandi and Greg Willoughby.

*Noah Sexton is being recognized by the Science Department. His teacher, Mr. Bill Jenkins says, “Noah demonstrates an exceptional understanding of the concepts that we cover in Science on a regular basis. He demonstrates a genuine curiosity and seeks ways to learn more. He routinely has answers to questions about whatever we’re studying. He approaches interactions with his peers and instructors with a strong sense of respect, which helps us promote a positive and inclusive learning environment. Noah is a great example of what happens when you mix curiosity with motivation. He is not just acing this class; he’s also giving those around him an example of how to be curious learners and respectful classmates.” Noah is the son of Jennifer and Jason Sexton.

*Yamileth Carreon is being recognized as the Academic Student of the Month by the Social Studies Department. Yamileth's teacher, Mrs. Julie Dye says "Yamileth has consistently maintained a 100 in U.S. History all semester. She completes all work in a timely manner, participates in class discussions, and is polite and respectful. She is conscientious about her work, and works hard to ensure she understands the content. Yamileth is the daughter of Nilda Ponce, Miguel Carreon.
